8am-3pm
Glendale Civic Center
5740 W. Glenn Dr.

Featuring:

The Sanctuary of Family Life

Parents and caregivers, educators and child advocates, and anyone who values the child will find inspiration in this keynote talk. Shea explores how - in our fast-paced, complex, electronic age - we may create and provide an environment for children that serves as a haven and inspires family closeness.

Shea Darian

From Kids at Risk to Kids at Hope

Exploring the science of hope, optimism and success and how it can be instilled in all children without exception.

Rick Miller

In the Absence of Meaning, the Presence of Purpose

As a great compliment to the keynote talk, this workshop also acknowledges our current culture. Participants will explore the ways one can reconnect to meaning, and help to restore the sacred time and space of "childhood" through play, through nature and through health & wellness.

Vanessa Chamberlain

Supporting Those With Adverse Childhood Experiences

This workshop will show how these experiences effect our community and how the community can serve as be a buffer.

The Adverse Childhood Experiences Study (ACE Study) is probably the most significant research that examines the relationship between traumatic stress in childhood to the leading causes of health risk behaviors, disease and early death. However, with a supportive community, persons who have had adverse experiences can be successful and find hope. This conference can be a place to start building a strong community. Please join us!
